The deputies began a search in the early evening for 18-yearold Kayleigh Ann Prukop. She is 5'6", 135 lbs, with red hair and hazel eyes. minutes later it was Isaiah Ibrahim's turn to find pay dirt as he ran around the left side of the formation and scampered 60 yards down the sideline to tie the game at 20-20. The conversion failed.

As the quarter began to wind down Riddle had the ball on their own 43 yard line when quarterback Layton Rainwater handed the ball off to Ibrahim who once again hit the sideline this time racing 57 yards to the end zone.

Rainwater ran the ball in for the two point conversion on a keeper and the Irish were on top for the first time on the afternoon, 28-20.

Following a four and out (turnover on downs) by Country Christian Riddle began to work on the clock trying to run it out but had to give the ball back to the Cougars with under a minute left in the game.

Country Christian promptly took it the length of the field and put it in the end zone on a 22 yard pitch and catch to set up a potential game-tying two point conversion attempt with no time left.

The attempt was a run but the Riddle defense held them out of the end zone to end the game and secure the 28-26 victory.

This marked the third time in as many games that Ibrahim has rushed for over 150 yards.

Riddles 3-0 start to the season is the best start they have had in over a quarter of a century, 1998 to be exact. That year the Irish won their first four games but injuries cost them the rest of the season and they finished 4-5.

South Umpqua suffers first loss

NORTH VALLEY -- The South umpqua football team took it on the chin Friday night, September 26, as they suffered their first loss of the season 6-3 at the hands of North Valley.

The Lancers led early on 3-0 on a 30 yard field goal by Cooper Howard in the first quarter.

They held that lead through the second quarter and into the third before the Knights found paydirt to take a6-3 advantage which ended up being the final score.

The Knights outgained the Lancers 365 to 149 but the Lancer defense didn't break.

South Umpqua's defense was led by several individuals. Adam Whetzel had eight tackles as did Korbin Lussier. Whetzel also had a pick. Both Crew Donner and Bobby Jense had six tackles and Skyler moss added five tackles and a interception.

On offense quarterback Michae Fischer was 10-of-16 for 53 yards.

Donner had 16 carries for 54 yards.

Lussier caught four passes for 21 yards.

Jayden Kaae added 34 yards on the ground.

Though fall is here fire season isn't over

SALEM – The Oregon Department of Forestry (ODF) wants to remind Oregonians that even with the weather starting to transition to fall, fire is still on the landscape and fire regulations are still in effect. The department wants to warn the public against complacency since a season ending rain event has not happened yet and east winds, known to elevate fire risk, are a common occurrence this time of year.

"With the temperature changes, it's easy to think that fires are lessening or that fire season is over. However, we are still seeing new fire starts daily throughout the state and fire regulations remain in place," said Michael Curran, ODF Fire Protection Division

Even with lower temperatures and intermittent rain, fuels remain very dry with the potential for a fire to start and grow. Thus far in the season, there have been 1,091 fires on ODF-protected lands - 671 of which have been human-caused. By taking a few extra steps, you can help prevent the next wildfire in Or-

Wildfire prevention means: Debris burning remains the number one cause of human-caused fires in Oregon and is prohibited during fire season. Cover your pile and wait until fire season is declared over before burning. A dry, covered pile is cleaner and safer to burn in the late fall and winter.

Check local restrictions before lighting a camp or warming fire to see if it is allowed.

Never leave your campfire or warming fire unattended.

Make sure your campfire or warming fire is OUT COLD. That means drowning it with water, stirring the ashes, and repeating that process until it is cold to touch. If there is any heat coming off the embers, then it can reignite later.

Don't park your car over dried grass, and make sure your vehicle or ATV is regularly serviced. More than 100 fires have resulted from vehicle use in 2025.

Make sure your tow chains are not dragging. The metal hitting asphalt while driving can throw sparks into dry grass on the side of the road.

Several ODF districts have updated their fire danger levels recently; however most of the state remains between moderate and high fire danger. Visit Oregon.gov/odf to find local fire restrictions and keeporegongreen.org for more wildfire prevention tips.

A tale of two heroes of two different Civil Wars

By Finn J.D. John

On July 28, 1915, one of the heroes of the American Civil War was laid to rest in a grave in Crystal Lake Cemetery in Corvallis.

The life story of U.S. Army General Thomas Thorp had been a remarkable one. But nothing it contained was too much more remarkable than the story of that funeral service. Presiding over it was one of Thorp's best friends, a Methodist minister and fellow Civil War veteran named John Richard Newton Bell – J.R.N., as he was called by nearly everyone. Bell was a Confederate veteran — a Virginian by birth. When Thorp had arrived in Corvallis 15 years before, he and Bell had quickly found each other — the Civil War veterans of both sides formed a sort of informal brotherhood in every community at that time. So, of course, Thorp and Bell started reminiscing about battles they'd been involved in, cross-referencing their memories to see if they might have been in the same fights.

They quickly realized that, in fact, they had. In a pitched battle late in the war, the regiment Thorp commanded the 1st New York Dragoons — had actually captured Bell and hauled him off to a prisoner-of-war camp.

The two of them had never actually met in person on the battlefield — it would have been a bit odd for that to have happened, given that Bell was a private soldier and Thorp was a full-bird colonel in charge of the regiment that had captured him. But both men considered it a marvelous coincidence, and it became the basis for a great friendship. The Civil War hero: Blue

vs. Grav

The first half of Thomas Thorp's life was utterly dominated by the U.S. Army. But although both his grandfathers had fought in the Revolutionary War, he clearly wasn't envisioning a military career for himself until the rebellion broke out.

When it did, he was close to graduation from Union College in Schenectady. Leaving his classes behind, he raced to join the Army. He was appointed a captain in a regiment of volunteer infantry, and finished up his college work in the field; his degree was conferred on him while he was with his regiment.

He also was married before his regiment; in 1862, while recovering from a battle wound, he met Mandana Major, the daughter of another officer. Both of them were part of a group of recruiters barnstorming New York trying to enlist volunteers for the war. When Thomas and Mandana were married, it was before the full regiment, and they exited the ceremony beneath an arch of crossed sabers.

The two of them then plunged into action — he fighting with his regiment, and she helping in an auxiliary role; she insisted on accompanying him in the field. Thorp was captured in the battle of Trevelyan Station, but in the POW camp he made such fiery patriotic speeches that the rebels decided he was a security threat, and transferred him to a POW camp in Charleston; while en route, his guards fell asleep, so he leaped off the speeding train into the blackness without. Landing by sheer good fortune without being injured or to his local flag; but unlike killed, he then traveled back through hundreds of miles of enemy territory to rejoin his

At the end of the war, Thorp was promoted to the rank of Brigadier General by brevet (which means, essentially, that his title got a promotion but his paycheck did not; he remained a colonel in all but name).

After the war, the Thorps headed west. They farmed and ranched in Michigan and Arizona before coming to Newberg in the early 1890s when their two children enrolled in Pacific College (now George Fox University). By the turn of the century, they'd settled in Corvallis, where Thorp met the former enemy who was to become his great friend: The Reverend Dr. J.R.N. Bell.

The Civil War hero: Beavers vs. Ducks

J.R.N. Bell was just 16 when the Civil War broke out, but he was already a college student — studying theology at Wytheville College in Virginia. When the shooting started, he, like Thorp, rallied

Thorp, he entered the service as a plain Confederate pri-

Bell saw plenty of action; he took a bayonet through the shoulder in a Union charge at Cold Harbor, and fought in 32 battles. By the time he was captured by Thorp's regiment, he was a seasoned veteran. Even so, Thorp may have saved his life on that battlefield: of the original 86 members of his company, only himself and three other men survived the war alive and physically intact.

After the war, Bell took a job teaching school to raise tuition money to finish his degree; while there, he met and married his wife, fellow teacher Margaret Kirk. Once he'd graduated, he was ordained a Methodist minister and, after a brief assignment in Arkansas, found himself embarking on what would be a 50-year career in Oregon starting with the Southern Methodist Church in Ashland.

Bell finally settled in Corvallis in 1907, but he was no stranger to the town. He was, by then, the most well-known pastor of any denomination in Oregon. He'd led Methodist and Presbyterian congregations in Baker City, Independence and Roseburg, as well as at least one previous stint in Corvallis. He'd delivered guest sermons at hundreds of churches of various denominations. He'd also earned the informal title of "the marrying parson" — he'd presided over more than 1,000 marriages and had become a family tradition for many families; the sons and daughters of couples he'd married would seek him out when it was time for them to get married in turn. He also had held the office of Grand Chaplain of the Masons for longer than anyone else in history.

And he'd made a name for himself in a new kind of Civil War: the one between the rival football teams of Oregon Agricultural College (now Oregon State University) and the University of Oregon. Bell joined the board of trustees of OAC in 1874 — six years after the college was founded, and the same year the rival U. of O. was established. He became one of the founders of the athletic program at OAC, and was an enthusiastic spectator at the very first Civil War football game in 1894 — a game from which would spring the oldest college football rivalry on the West Coast. Following the 16-0 victory for OAC, Bell got a little carried away; he rushed down the hill to the bank of the Marys River and threw his top hat into the drink.

After that, every year the Beavers beat the Ducks, Bell would re-enact this historic hat-dunking. This became one of Corvallis' biggest social events; thousands of fellow Beavers fans would make the journey with him to the water's edge and cheer the hat on its slow, watery way toward the Willamette. Fortunately for Bell's finances, the Beavers didn't win very often at first; after that first year, they won just four games in the following 30 years (although they tied eight).

In 1921, the college named its football stadium after Bell, and from then until 1953, the Beavers played in Bell Field.

J.R.N. Bell died in 1928, right at the end of the Beavers' first streak of back-to-back Civil War wins (1925-1927). He was buried in Crystal Lake Cemetery, near his old friend and former wartime enemy Thorp, and almost within a hat's toss of the Marys River.

Umpqua National Forest removes Public Use Restrictions

ROSEBURG — Due to re- Level 1 means that all fire cent rainfall and cooler temperatures, the Umpqua National Forest removed Public Use Restrictions (PURs) on Friday, Sept. 26. Fire danger was lower to "moderate." Industrial Fire Precaution Level (IFPL) moved to level 1, as of Monday, Sept. 29. Removing PURs across the forest means that there are no longer restrictions on campfires, stoves, smoking, generators, motorized vehicles, or firewood cutting. Even with the reduced fire risk, it is still important to never leave a campfire unattended and completely extinguish it, so it is cold to the touch. Industrial Fire Precaution precaution requirements are in effect, and a fire watch is required.

These reductions in fire restrictions come from rainfall and extended weather forecast patterns which are contributing to moderating fire conditions. However, the Forest does urge recreators to remain vigilant as fire risks can still arise. Fire prevention is a shared responsibility, and everyone has a role to play in preventing wildfires. Please be careful when recreating and continue to use safe fire practices into the fall and winter months.

Under this new plan for Oregon, FEMA would change the NFIP to focus on protecting floodplain habitat for fish, rather than insuring properties from flood and mitigating risks to life and property. The new requirements would apply to all NFIP mapped areas within the highlighted areas of the state – affecting 31 counties and more than 100 cities and towns. If a community refuses to adopt these new standards, FEMA can kick them out of the NFIP, making all residents ineligible for federal flood insurance and disaster aid.

Here are some of the proposed new rules and their potential impacts:

A typical new single-family house could require a second piece of land to be kept undeveloped as "mitigation."

The cost of construction for homes and new commercial development could increase by nearly 30 percent. The cost of your new home could go up more than $7500 a year in mortgage/interest to pay for complying with the new requirements.

Remodeling or expanding existing developed commercial and industrial land could FEMA is currently accepting public comments on their Draft Environmental Impact Statement which is the next step in making these new rules permanent. FEMA has presented three alternatives. Alternative 1 would allow the NFIP to continue to operate in Oregon without costly changes. Alternatives 2 and 3 require costly mitigation of all development in floodplains. FEMA wants to hear from the public and interested parties about which alternative they should select and why.

Oregonians for Floodplain Protection is urging people to tell FEMA to adopt Alternative 1. Oregon has existing rules to protect endangered species, and FEMA is using nearly 10-year-old data to make these rules. FEMA's public meetings held so far have had less than 100 people participating, and the general public does not know about these new rules. The last public meeting is September 30th from 6-8 pm via Zoom.
