Douglas Education Service District

TRI CITY - South Umpqua School District (SUSD) kicked off the 2025–26 school year on a strong note, guided by a shared commitment to supporting students. Last year, the district developed a fiveyear strategic plan built around four pillars: Supported and Successful Students; Empowered and Valued Staff; Strong Family and Community Partnerships; and Modern and Safe Facilities. This road map reflects what students, staff and community members said were most important.

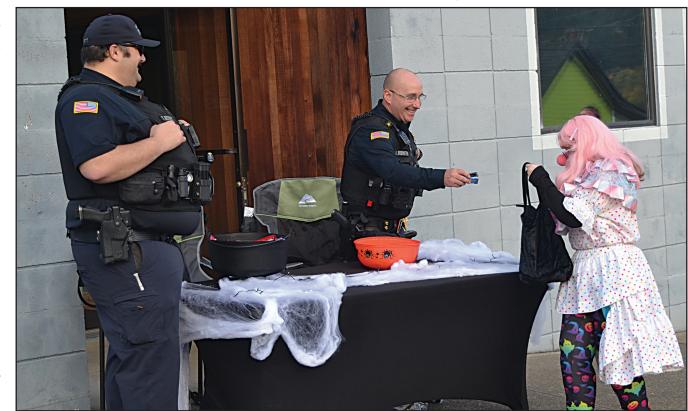

Student learning is always a top priority. Recent reading data for grades K-3 shows measurable growth, with an increasing number of students making progress toward grade-level benchmarks. The district credits this progress to effective literacy instruction, the use of evidence-based curriculum and collaboration among the educators. Plus, good attendance also plays a big role in student achievement. Going to school every day helps students build strong habits, form friendships and prepare for their future.

All employees working for the district are recognized as educators. Each individual plays a key role in student success. Employee success is also important. This is accomplished in part through planning, collaboration and professional learning opportunities during ear-

Riddle capsizes Glendale to make playoffs

RIDDLE – In the final game of the regular season the riddle football team rose to the occasion and took care of the visiting Glendale Pirates 40-20 to secure a spot in the O.S.A.A. 1A eight man playoffs, their first playoff berth since 1995.

It didn't hurt that this was also the Irish's Homecoming game and held on Friday, October 31, Halloween no less. Also adding fuel to the fire was that someone had decided to paint the usually white big R, red.

Riddle came out firing early and took a 6-0 lead on a 54 yard gallop by Isaiah Ibrahim and maintained that lead throughout the first quarter. They built that lead to 12-0 in the second when quarterback Layton Rainwater hit Stephen Nordyke on a six yard strike.

Glendale was not to be outdone and the rest of the second quarter belonged to the Pirates as they built a 14-12 lead at the half.

A halftime speech by Ibrahim about just going out and having fun seemed to motivate the Irish as they came out charged up and took the lead back for good in the thirds with another rushing touchdown by Ibrahim, this one from 21 yards out. The conversion failed bu Riddle had the lead 18-14.

In the fourth the Irish p.m.

pushed the lead out even more as Ibrahim found the end zone for the third time on the night, this time from 10 yards away. The conversion was good and Riddle led 26-14.

With about five minutes left in the game Glendale cashed in on a 56 yard pass to cut the deficit to 26-20.

On their next possession the Irish took care of business as Jonathan Harp burst through the middle and 44 yards later was in the end zone for another score and with successful conversion Riddle led by 14, 34-20.

Harp capped off the night on Glendale's ensuing possession as he intercepted a Rocha pass and took it 51 yards to the house with no time left on the clock for the game ending pick six giving the Irish a 40-20 victory.

The Irish defense stood strong in the second half only allowing just 25 yards over the two quarters not counting the 56 yard scoring play.

Riddle Head Coach Jason Luft praised his defense for their second half play. He also noted that the return of Austin Dean in the second half sparked the team. Dean sat out the first half due to injury.

The Irish now face the sixth-ranked and seeded Imber Panthers on Saturday, November 8. Kickoff is set for 2

Check email for boat registration renewals

SALEM - The Oregon State Marine Board will be emailing motorboat registration renewal notices to boaters who have email addresses on file whose registration expires on December 31, 2025. Each renewal notice is unique to the owner and their boat. Owners are encouraged to take advantage of the online renewal option, and the email has detailed instructions for using the Boat Oregon Store. For boaters who do not have an email address on file with the agency, renewal notices will be sent via US Mail and should arrive by mid-Novem-

The fastest way to get on the water is to renew online through the Marine Board's Boat Oregon Store, which provides a printable temporary permit to go boating right away. Owners can renew multiple boats or purchase Waterway Access Permits in one transaction for a $1.50 portal provider fee. The registration decals are mailed within 2-5 days from online sales and within 7-10 business days from the date of receipt by US mail with payment and the remittance coupon. Owners can then expect an additional 2-4 weeks for their decals to arrive by US Mail. The timelines may vary since printing and mailing are handled outside the agency.

Any watercraft with a motor or sailboats 12 feet or longer are required to be titled and registered with the Marine Board. Early bird online sales begin on November 1. Motorboat registration fees are $8 plus $5.95 per foot and are issued on a 2-year calendar basis for 2026. Renewing in the fall or early winter months is recommended to avoid long delays during the peak summer season.

Nonmotorized boaters of kayaks, canoes, rafts, drift, stand up paddleboards, and their inflatable versions can also purchase waterway access permits through the Boat Oregon Store. A 7-day permit costs $6, an annual permit is $20, and a two-year permit is $35. Annual and two-year permits are also valid for one or two calendar years. Paddlers are encouraged to purchase permits early in the year to get the most use out of them and to explore the bounty of waterways in the state. Because permits can be saved or printed immediately, they make great "stocking stuffers" for the holidays, especially if you plan on gifting someone a boat. Permits are transferable to other paddlecraft, and children under 14 are

Offbeat Oregon History

The all-night municipal gunfight of the frontier town of Ione

By Finn J.D. John

Plenty of Oregon towns have been the scene of Old West-style gunfights during the frontier era, but very few of them have ever hosted one in which nearly everybody in the town participated.

northern central Oregon, is one that has.

The occasion of Ione's experiment in mixing a gunfight with a block party ("two great tastes that taste great together"?) was the arrival on the scene of a local troublemaker named Charles Earhart.

Earhart was well known to the citizens of Ione. At various times a wheat farmer and a saloonkeeper, he was also an ex-convict, having just been pardoned out of the joint six months earlier on charges stemming from a drunken shooting spree in Ione. He was one of those fellows who's perfectly nice until he takes a drink — but after that,

That night, his boilers were well stoked — and he was on the town to settle a score. Before his jail stretch, when he was keeping his saloon in town, he'd boarded with a woman named Mary Granger. He and Mrs. Granger apparently got along too well for the tastes of her husband. Whether there was anything to be jealous of or not is unknown, but Mr. Granger was confident enough in his conclusions that he moved out, taking the couple's two sons with him and leaving three daughters — ages 10, 13 and 14 — with her. The couple had a fourth daughter as well, who had married a man named Henry Clark and left the nest.

Months went by. Earhart went to prison, served a year and a half, was pardoned by the governor, and moved back to town. Mary Granger left her boardinghouse business and took a job as manager of the Ione Hotel. And then, in late June of 2009, she offered Earhart a job on her staff.

When news of this job offer reached the ears of Henry Clark and his wife, the two of them confronted Mary and demanded that she fire Earhart and remove her other daughters from his influence.

News of this interference reached Earhart's ears on Thursday, July 2. He apparently stewed on it for a day; but Friday night found him in a more pro-active mood.

"Early Friday evening, Earhart began to tank up, and at dusk went down to the hotel conducted by Mrs. Granger," the Heppner Gazette reporter wrote. "Upon meeting the woman in front of the hotel on the sidewalk, a quarrel ensued. The quarrel, after reaching the warm stage, was taken up by Henry Clark."

Clark was, of course, just the man Earhart wanted to see, and he pulled a big knife out of his pocket with which to continue the conversation — escalating the imminent conflict from fists to knives. Clark responded by escalating things a bit more — with a revolver. Mary Granger jumped between the two men, trying to hold Clark, who fired over her shoulder at Earhart. Then, shaking free, he ran to the street and fired three more shots after the fast-retreating ex-con. All were clean miss-

But Earhart didn't scare that easy — not, at any rate, when drunk. Running to Walker's General Merchandise store, he kicked out the plate-glass front window and ducked into the building, making for the gun counter. He was looking for a Winchester rifle, with which to continue the arms race with

Luckily for everyone involved, he couldn't find the The tiny town of Ione, in rifles in the dark. But he did find a dandy double-barreled shotgun, and grabbing a couple boxes of shells (loaded, in another stroke of luck for all involved, with No. 1 birdshot) he headed for the door, bashing the lock off with the butt of the shotgun to let himself out. Then he struck out for Clark's house.

> Nobody was there. But on his way back to town, Earhart met Clark with another man. Leveling the shotgun at them, he ordered them to climb over a nearby fence, and as they did so, he pumped a charge of bird shot into Clark's back. Luckily for Clark, it didn't penetrate enough to inflict more than a painful flesh wound and knock him off the fence, where presumably he had the good sense to not

> Meanwhile, Ione residents who'd seen or heard the burglary at Walker's store had reported the situation to the town marshal and sheriff's deputy. Soon virtually every man in Ione was excitedly (and, in most cases, drunkenly; after all, it was Friday night) hurrying home, arming himself, and presenting himself for service on a posse. The officers were gathering and instructing the excited members of the still-growing posse on the main street in town, apparently unaware that their quarry was sitting quietly on the steps of the drugstore next to a friend whom he'd forced at gunpoint to accompany over at his friend, remarked that it was his turn to make a move, and started up the street.

movement caught The someone's eye, and a shout went up from the posse: "Stop right there!" Earhart's reply was two quick blasts from the shotgun as he took to his heels, heading for the far side of a blacksmith's shop; the path before him was lighted by the muzzle flashes of at least a dozen posse members' rifles and pistols, but somehow none of the bullets hit him, although one did graze his back.

As he ran, Earhart tripped over an elderly hobo, who had spread his bedroll out between two houses. The hobo raised his head, trying to see what had happened — and a member of the posse, seeing him there and thinking he was Earhart, shot him, inflicting a severe chest wound.

"As soon as the facts were realized the posse was considerably rattled, and Earhart's whereabouts were lost track of," the Gazette reported.

Assuming Earhart was in one of the warehouses, the posse surrounded them. They soon learned their mistake when the shotgun bellowed again from a nearby bush on the hillside behind them, sending a cloud of stinging .160-caliber pellets at a posse member from 80 yards away. The posse member, peppered with shot but not really hurt, fell to the ground and started yelling for help; Morrow County Sheriff's Deputy Walter Cason went to help him, and himself got a charge of shot in the back and another in the legs.

After that, the posse reformed and waited for daylight, which finally came and revealed Earhart's hideout. Tired, sober and suddenly aware of the hopelessness of his situation, Earhart started crying and begging for mercy. He came out and was soon safely arrested and shackled and on his way to Heppner in the care of the sheriff.

Behind him he left the town of Ione peppered with bullet holes — more than 50 of them on the north side of Main Street alone.

On the way to the sheriff's office, Earhart and Deputy Walter Cason — who, remember, Earhart had hit with two long-range blasts from the shotgun — got into a nasty verbal fight. It ended with Earhart threatening to come back to Ione and kill Cason — a threat that several other people overheard.

Earhart pleaded Not Guilty to all charges, and his trial was a bit of a circus. "In outlining his case to the jury, (Earhart's attorney) declared that they would prove the shot fired by Earhart ... was fired accidentally as the result of his stumbling as he walked along the sidewalk," the Gazette's reporter wrote. "He said further that they would prove that a conspiracy was formed by the armed mob for the purpose of murdering the accused man."

Not surprisingly, it didn't work. He drew four and a half years in the state pen.

One imagines the citizens of Ione didn't much look forward to Earhart's release date. Of course, he came straight home. But he found the reception awaiting him somewhat warmer than he might have anticipated.

Maybe Earhart intended to settle his score with Cason upon his return to town, and maybe he'd forgotten all about it. But when he arrived, he found Cason waiting for

The two men went for their pistols. Cason shot him through the heart.

Cherokee Nation

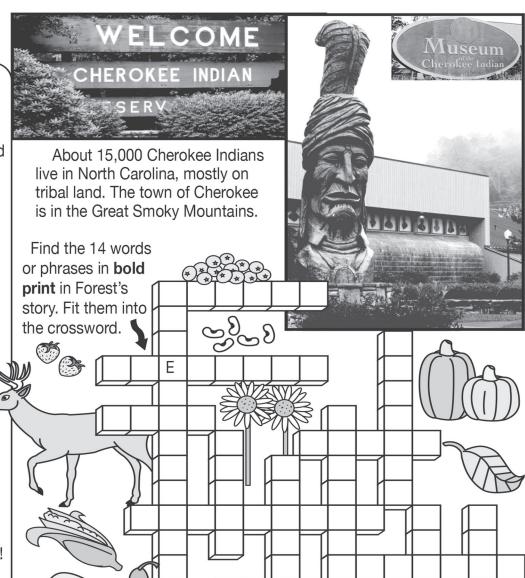

Did you know that archaeologists think the first people to live in North America were the Paleo-Indians? At the end of the last Ice Age (around 12,000 years ago) these people moved from Asia into North America on a land bridge that existed then. It is believed that they lived in small family groups and moved constantly to hunt animals like the mastodon (an elephant-like animal that is now extinct) and to gather foods like berries and nuts. Arrowheads for spears and other tools mark places where they lived. In the Archaic period (8,000 to 1,000 BCE), families had homes with wooden poles covered with hides, which could be moved. In the spring they would move to the river valleys to fish and collect shellfish. In the fall they would move to the forest to hunt deer or turkey and gather nuts and berries. Archaeologists have studied tools, soapstone bowls, burial grounds and

In a more recent period, Woodland Indians, people are thought to have had villages as well as seasonal camps. Corn, a key part of the Indian diet, was introduced. The first evidence for the bow and arrow were found. It is believed that people were trading: salt, beads, shells, fish, pottery and animal skins.

During the next period, Mississippian Indians, settlements became more permanent. Squash, corn and beans, known as the Three Sisters, were important and foods from hunting and gathering were now added to the foods harvested from gardens. Beautiful jewelry and pottery were created too.

After 1650, when Europeans arrived, there were years of both peace and fighting. In 1836, the U.S. Senate accepted a treaty signed by a small group of Cherokee to sell their land and the Cherokee were forced to leave the east to be resettled in Oklahoma. They were expected to walk 1,000 miles to get there! On this hard walk, now called the "Trail of Tears," an estimated 4,000-8,000 people died. Some Cherokee refused to move and hid in the mountains. Many of their descendants now live on Qualla Boundary, a preserve.

pottery to understand these people's ways.

Sequoyah was a young Cherokee who learned how to work with silver. He wanted to sign his work like the European silversmiths did, so he visited Chief Charles Hicks, who could write in English. After Sequoyah learned to write his name using the alphabet, he began to think about creating a writing system for the Cherokee language. With it, they would be able to read and write letters, write down stories and record their history. He created a system where each sound was represented by a symbol, so each letter was a syllable of a word. His system was easy to use and many Cherokee learned to read and write using it.

Sequoyah liked papers and books since they could be used to exchange ideas.

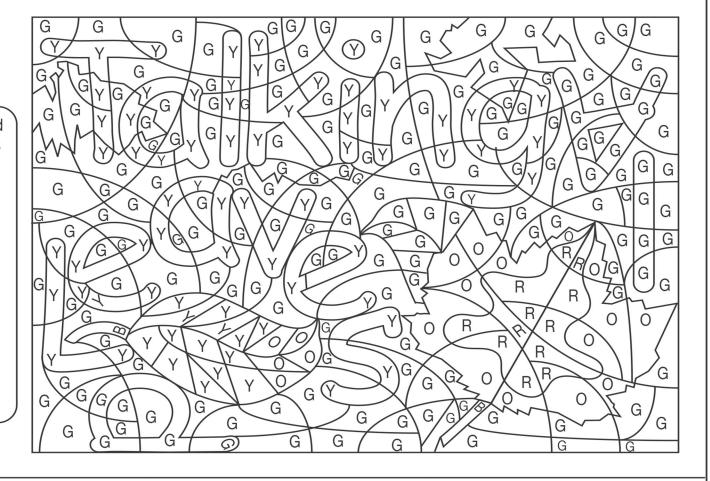

Follow the color key to see what he called them:

Marine board approves several agenda items

BEND – The Oregon State Marine Board held its quarterly meeting on October 30 in Bend. The Board approved an emergency grant for Sandy Beach (Schwitter Landing) on Government Island in addition to approving administrative rulemaking to implement laws that go into effect for 2026.

The Oregon State Parks and Recreation Department applied for a grant to fund a detailed hydraulic and structural analysis of the Sandy Beach short-term tie-up dock. Government Island is only accessible by boat and is a popular destination for cruisers, sailboats, and other recreational boaters enjoying the day or overnight on the Columbia River. The grant will provide the necessary data to inform decisions on long-term modifications or repairs of the dock and debris deflection boom. The Board approved $100,000 federal Boating Infrastructure Grant funds, combined with $38,334 in applicant match for a total project cost of $138,334.

The Board was also updated on the Small Grant program's existing threshold award amount of $30,000, with a maximum total project cost, not to exceed $50,000 for the current biennium. The

The rule exempts nonmotorized boats less than 10 feet from the Waterway Access Permit requirement for people engaged in whitewater activities on specific waterways identified by the Board in rule. Agency staff proposed using GIS technology as a better aid for visualizing specific waterways with Class IV and higher whitewater rapids, in a map application that includes facility access data from the agency's Boat Oregon Online Map.
