Members of the Myrtle Creek Lions Club, the sponsor of the event, were very pleased to see the number of volunteers who came out to assist with the dinner. The Munoz family showed up in force to honor Ray. According to organizers there were approximately 175 people who came through line and received a meal. Lions President Janis Clark said that although the attendance numbers have not equaled those prior to the pandemic, the club now knows what to expect and plans to continue the dinner for many more years. Announcement to our readers

For many years, our newspaper, The Douglas County Mail, has been dedicated to providing trustworthy local news, thoughtful storytelling, and a reliable voice for our community. We remain committed to that mission. However, we must also adapt to the realities facing the journalism industry today.

Like many publications across the country, we have experienced declining advertising revenues, a primary source of funding for our newsroom. At the same time, printing and postage costs have continued to rise sharply, making weekly physical production increasingly unsustainable.

After careful consideration, and in order to preserve the quality of our reporting and ensure the long-term stability of our publication, if we cannot secure some significant additional advertisers, we will be transitioning to a fully virtual, digital-only platform as of January 1, 2026.

This change will allow us to continue delivering the news you rely on—more quickly, more efficiently, and without the financial strain that print distribution now imposes. Our digital edition will include all the content you've come to expect, with additional features made possible by an online format.

We understand this is a significant shift, and we deeply appreciate your support and understanding as we take this necessary step. Our commitment to serving our readers remains stronger than ever, and we look forward to continuing that service in our new digital home.

Thank you for being part of our community.

Numbers? Who cares about numbers

Yes, here it was once again a feeling that we were going the trek to retrieve the city Christmas tree and for the sixth year in a row the day was changed but this time to Tuesday instead of Wednesday before Thanksgiving, and with little or no warning I might add.

It seems that Zach, our new fearless leader, thought there was too much work to be done on Wednesday with the leaf pickup program.

I thought I might have a shot as I told him I was his new boss, not his old boss, but he stayed with the lyrics and said he wouldn't get fooled again.

This year it did feel a little different. as Ms. Gail was not going on the ride. Just because she has been a little under the weather this fall and recently had eye surgery I guess she felt she couldn't handle the ride.

That was alright with me too because for the second year in a row I was able to convince the twins, my grandsons, to come along, or so I thought. I tried to use the old excuse that we would probably need their strength. That always worked with them before. Not this time. They opted out and told me to have a good time..

the lot and as I pulled up I had to be few in numbers

I asked Zach if they were just waiting on me, which has never happened before, and he said yea unless I knew of anyone else.

I told him I was it so we took off to go get a Christmas tree, all five of us...

This is my 199h year of this trek and after last year I thought we might get a rise in numbers, Lord knows we couldn't get much worst after the six from last year, or so I thought. Well it seems that we need four city bodies now so our numbers dropped this

Here we are just five of us and only myself not employed by the city but I am not going to try and negotiate any pay like I did last year because even though I am not employed I guess I am considered city as well being a councilor.

I thought this year might be a new adventure as we were exploring new places and new opportunities but, as I said last year, this whole operation was beginning to look and feel more like a task that had to be completed rather than one of fun and fellow-

But as we traveled to I saw very few vehicles in where the crew had marked a tree last year it began to look all to familiar. It was our old stomping grounds from last year.

We had to pick out a tree for city hall as well, just like we do every year

I have to say though that the one tree that Zach finally picked out was a good choice, even though it took a lot longer than it should have but Zach kept asking what everyone else thought instead of taking the proverbial bull by the horns and choosing one, which he finally did...

There was one newbie, Braven Kelley, but there was no way on God's green earth that Zach was putting a chain saw in anyone's hands but his own to do the honors of dropping the tree. Once we were ready to load the tree on the trailer it was obvious that with this few of people I was actually going to have to lend a hand, but wait I brought the twins.

But between the four of them they were able to wrestle the tree onto the trailer and it was agreed that it was about the perfect height.

After loading the tree we drove for just a little ways and I'll be damned if we didn't come back out on South Myr-

The drive back to town was uneventful and once the tree was brought to its new home on Second Avenue.

This didn't take very long as Zach, Aaron, Michael, and Braven, along with the help of the backhoe, soon had the tree upright and leveled and all in time for the crew to take a late lunch.

Just a little history lesson here before we close this chapter. This tradition was started in 2005 by then City Councilor Ken Broulliard and then City Administrator Aaron Cubic and they, along with Ken's wife Marilyn, made the first trek up the hill. I joined the process the following year and have been a part of it ever since, minus one year. The numbers have been as low as that first year of three to as high as 22 in 2009 and have always been at least six until two years ago and again this year with just five.

I would also like to recognize the crew that made the trek this year. In addition to myself there were Zach Potter, Aaron Lincecum and Michael Redinger and Braven

Kelley.

Thank all of you for making this a part of your holiday and I hope to see you on the trek for many years to come.

I know this type of community pride and involvement is not unique to Myrtle Creek. It happens in hundreds of small cities and towns throughout this great land and what a joy to be able to be a part of this.

I make poke a lot of fun at those who take part in this annual sojourn but it is only because I know I can do so without consequence.

These people are my friends and what is life without levity. It is only fitting that I give kudos to the caravan. It is through these little snippets of time and conversation that I have come to know these different people and welcome them into my inner circle. Yes, I deal with all of them on a professional level, but to get to know someone on a personal level and consider them a friend is just so satisfying.

Every year this outing revitalizes my spirit and renews my faith in family and community. I feel sorry for those who are confined to the boundaries of urban life and must retrieve their holiday trees from a box at the local department store or a lot downtown.

There is something to be said for the community pride and involvement that you find in rural America and the ability to enjoy a life less complicated but who knows next year I may get another itch, but I seriously doubt it. I am probably in it for another 10 year stretch without a break. But what I would love to see in the future is the numbers swell once again to where we would need more than two trucks and we could even have a bonfire and sing Christmas carols. As we celebrate the anniversary of this blessed event.

Thanks to all of you who made the trip: Zach, Aaron, Michael and Braven once again you have renewed my spirit and at least for a couple of hours made life less complicated.

Recent Guatemala clinic trip stirs reminders

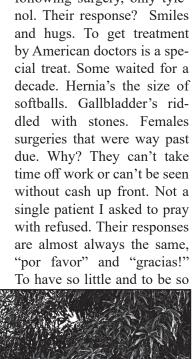

By Dan Jocoy

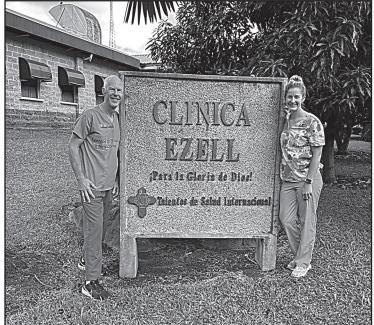

Helen Keller said, "I complained I had no shoes until I met a man who had no feet." Nothing to remind myself how good we Americans have it, like a trip to Guatemala with Health Talent International at Clinic Ezell last month where I served as chaplain. Our team of 45 preformed 49 general surgeries and we might have done more save the torrential rains that knocked out bridges and emergency room fixtures. Here are a few things the brave and thankful Guatemalan people taught me.

Patience: Each day the line was long and the folks waited outside to get examined by one of the doctors. For some folks it was from when the clinic gates opened to nearly when they closed. Our six surgeons squeezed examinations in between surgeries. If approved, patients stayed the night for surgery the next day. If not, the person left to take a bus or paid for a tuk tuk back home, which for some was two hours away. These people know how to patiently wait, I thought. One could only imagine how upset some of us would be to have to wait the entire day.... only to be turned away.

Gratitude: Few if any of our surgery patients received general anesthesia. Most received a spinal block and following surgery, only tylethankful is... beautiful and refreshing.

Hopeful: One woman brought her five year old on a whim. Maybe, she thought, we could treat him. I met little six-year Francisco waiting like the others to be seen. What I didn't know till later was under his tee-shirt and outside his body was a large section of his intestines. A birth defect I was told. They waited half the day only to be turned away but his mom left encouraged which surprised me. She was given a referral and our clinic follows up. Though she made only $3 a day making tortillas (and rose at 3am), the determination on her face communicated beyond the language barrier that come hell or high water she was going to see that her son got medical treatment.

There's more. The above average rains and fragile infrastructure. The corrugated metal lean-to homes. The unsafe vehicles and motorcycles hauling children and elderly people literally holding on. That's daily life for a whole bunch of folks there. Forget government benefits or hand outs. They don't exist. You are on your own there. Yet, most folks I met were resilient and tough. They have to be. I'm going back next October to serve and be reminded just how easy I have it here in Douglas County, Oregon in the abundantly blessed United States of America.

Secretary of State taking comments

SALEM — The Oregon Secretary of State Office is now accepting public comment on proposed administrative rules governing the Oregon Motor Voter (OMV) program - Oregon's automatıc voter registration system administered through the Oregon Department of Transportation's Driver and Motor Vehicle Services Division (DMV).

The Secretary of State's office convened a Rules Advisory Committee (RAC) from September to November of this year to review and make revisions to the OMV program's administrative rules, including addressing the findings and recommendations outlined by the independent Baker Tilly audit.

"Oregonians' confidence in our elections and the safety of vulnerable communities depends on us getting the automatic voter registration process right," said Secretary of State Tobias Read.

Myrtle Creek woman arrested on drug charges

MYRTLE CREEK - On Tuesday, November 25, detectives with the Douglas Interagency Narcotics Team (DINT) arrested a Myrtle Creek woman on various drug charges.

Through an ongoing investigation, detectives uncovered information alleging that 46 year old Laquita Twete was dealing methamphetamine.

At approximately 3:40 p.m. a deputy with the Douglas County Sheriff's Office conducted a traffic stop on Twete's vehicle. During the traffic stop, drug detection K-9 "Trapper" alerted to the presence of controlled substances in the vehigrams of suspected methamphetamine.

Detectives then served a search warrant on Twete's residence in the 300 block of Conrad Street in Myrtle Creek. At the residence, detectives located an additional 3.2 grams of suspected methamphetamine and a digital scale consistent with presumed delivery and distribution of controlled substances.

Twete was arrested and taken to the Douglas County Jail and charged with Driving While Suspended or Revoked and three counts each of Unlawful Manufacture of Methamphetamine, Unlawful Delivery of Methamphetamine and Unlawful Possession of Methamphetamine.

DHS encourages people to act today to protect SNAP and TANF benefits

SALEM - The Oregon Department of Human Services is encouraging people in Oregon to take action today to protect the SNAP food and TANF cash benefits on their EBT cards from electronic theft like card skimming, card cloning, phishing and other similar methods.

Most theft occurs in the beginning of the month immediately after SNAP and TANF benefits are issued to EBT cards. Criminals use methods like skimming devices, internet scams and fake websites to steal card numbers and personal identification numbers (PIN). Once they have this information, they use online or out-of-state purchases to drain SNAP food and TANF cash benefits from a person's

In October, approximately 220 households reported to ODHS that nearly $86,000 worth of SNAP food and stolen from their EBT cards. Criminals were blocked from stealing EBT benefits 104 times because people took action to protect their EBT

"People and families in Oregon rely on their SNAP food and TANF cash benefits to help them meet their basic needs," said Director Liesl Wendt. "Taking simple steps like changing your PIN, locking your cards and blocking online and out-of-state purchases works and keeps your benefits safe. We encourage everyone to do this today."

ODHS recommends that everyone with an EBT card take these steps to keep their benefits safe:

Only use the official ebt-EDGE website and mobile app for Apple or Android. ODHS does not guarantee the safety of any other EBT management apps or websites.

Freeze your card between uses: When you're not using your EBT card, consider freezing it as an extra layer of protection. Simply unfreeze it when you're ready to make a purchase. To do this, visit the ebtEDGE website or use the mobile app and look for "Freeze Card" under "Account Services." Block out-of-state and online purchases: You have the option to block transactions made outside of Oregon and online purchases to safeguard your card from unauthorized use. To do this, visit the ebtEDGE website or use the mobile app and look for "Protect My Account" under "Account Services." You can remove the blocks later. Change your PIN regularly: Get into the habit of updating your PIN often. This can help protect your account if someone does gain access to your card number. Here are PIN number:

Call 888-997-4447;

Log into the ebt-EDGE website. Take your EBT card to the closest ODHS benefits office. Keep your PIN secret: Never share your PIN or write it on your card. Cover the keypad whenever entering your PIN in a public setting. Thieves may use small cameras to capture your PIN entry. Inspect card readers carefully: Before swiping your card at an ATM or other card reader, check for anything unusual. Skimming devices are often placed on top of existing card readers. If you see anything that looks out of place or tampered with, avoid using it and let the business know. Monitor your EBT account activity: Make it a habit to check your account regularly for any unusual charges. If you see a charge you didn't Don't respond to suspicious texts: If you receive a text message asking for your EBT card number or PIN, ignore it. ODHS will never ask for your information this way.

Avoid social scams: Only trust posts and messages about your benefits from official ODHS accounts. ODHS will never ask for your benefits case number, PIN or other card information on social media.

For Milwaukie gas station owner, buying bomber was a wild adventure

By Finn J.D. John

It was the summer of 1947, and Art Lacey was in serious trouble.

He was about 50 feet above an Oklahoma airfield, at the controls of the biggest airplane he'd ever flown — a four-engined B-17G Flying Fortress, one of hundreds of the heavy bombers that the government was selling as surplus in the wake of the Second World War. This one was his; he had just bought it for $13,000. But now the landing gear were stuck in the retracted position, and it looked like he was about to crash it. This wouldn't have been such a big deal if it weren't for his "co-pilot." Art, not wanting to bother with getting someone to tag along with him, had brought a dressmaker's mannequin borrowed from a friend, dressed it in flight gear and propped up in the seat, to fool the airfield manager into thinking there were two guys in the cockpit. After crashing the plane and 'fessing up to this bit of deception, Art knew he would be in a less-than-optimal bargaining position visà-vis the defect in the plane he'd bought.

Still, that was all in the future. For now, the number-one goal was to not die in a giant fireball following a botched attempt at a gear-up landing. He lined the plane up as best he could with the runway and prepared to do his best.

Art's whole crazy scheme had its genesis when he first learned about the surplus B-17s. They were super-cheap, selling for not much above their scrap value, because there just weren't very many practical civilian uses for an obsolete heavy bomber. Art, already a successful Milwaukie businessman, had started stewing over how he might take advantage of the low prices on the big warbirds. The more he thought about it, the cooler he thought it would look to have one of them perched above the gas pumps at his gas station on McLoughlin Boulevard. The wings could serve as a roof over the pumps, and there would be room for a lot of them. And best of all, it wouldn't cost that much more than a stick-built structure of similar size.

According to Art's daughter, Punky Scott, in an interview with KATU-TV Channel 2 News, the scheme he developed remained just a scheme until someone put money on the line. At his birthday party, he shared his vision of a "Bomber Gas Station" with a friend, who laughingly told him he was dreaming. Art promptly put up a $5 bet, which was just as promptly accepted, and just like that the whole crazy dream was turned into a serious plan.

Art immediately turned to a friend who, Punky suggested, was well connected with the dark side of Portland business - untaxed liquor, gambling, pinball machines, that sort of thing. "Got any money on you?" he asked. "I need $15,000."

"And the guy had it on

NOTICE OF BOARD MEETING

The Canyonville - South Umpqua Fire District Board of Directors will hold its regular board meeting on Wednesday, December 10, 2025, at 7 p.m. in the meeting room at 400 N Main St, Canyonville, Oregon.

view. "I don't know how that translates into today's money, but it's got to be a lot."

It is. $15,000 in 1947 is the equivalent of $160,000 today a pretty impressive wad for "walking-around money."

Loaded down with this borrowed loot, Art made the journey to Oklahoma to buy his B-17. He had $13,000 for the plane and $2,000 for fuel and miscellaneous expenses on the way back.

Trouble started immediately upon arrival. After selling him the plane, the manager told him to bring his co-pilot the following day and he'd have the bird gassed up and ready. But Art hadn't realized he'd need a co-pilot, so he hadn't brought one.

He also hadn't given much thought to the fact that he'd never flown a four-engine bomber in his life. He was a skilled private pilot of single-engine planes, but this was very different.

Still, Art was determined to have his plane. So he returned the next day with the borrowed mannequin, strapped it into the copilot's seat, breezed into the manager's office and walked out ready to fly home.

Hoping to familiarize himself with the big aircraft a bit before he started flying it for real, he started out with a few passes, touch-and-gos, and gentle turns — the yoke in one hand and the flight manual in the other. And it was going pretty well, he thought. But then he realized that the landing gear was stuck.

He flew the plane around for a while, trying to figure out how to get it unstuck. Finally he realized he'd just have to bring the plane in on its belly and hope for the best.

So down came Art Lacey in his new, doomed warbird, landing in a shower of sparks with a screech of tearing met-

Although the cat was now out of the bag, the manager felt bad about the broken landing gear — and probably a little relieved, too, since his customer wasn't dead.

"He turned to his secretary up the bill of sale yet on that B-17?" Punky recounted. "And she said no, and he said, 'Worst case of wind damage I've ever seen.' And so he sold him a second B-17."

The second plane set Art back just $1,500 — a special deal the manager made him, knowing he'd spent all his money on the first one.

Of course, faking the copilot was no longer going to work, so Art called his wife long-distance and asked her to send two of his friends down with a case of whiskey. The booze was to be used to bribe the local fire department to pump the fuel out of the old B-17 and into the new one using their fire truck, and it was a powerful enticement; Oklahoma was still a dry state at the time.

Everything worked as planned, although Art had to kite a check in Palm Springs to refuel the big plane; luckily, he made it home to cover his paper before it could

But when he got home, Art found his troubles had just begun. The city of Portland wouldn't issue permits to bring the plane from the airport. It was just too big, even after the wings were disman-

But Art was in so deep now, there was no turning back. He scheduled the move for the dark of night, well after the bars had all closed. He hired two teenagers with hot cars to accompany the motorcade, with instructions to floor it and race off recklessly into the night if the police should appear — the idea being to draw the cops away from the plane. The truck drivers were instructed that under no circumstances were they to stop before they arrived at the gas station, no matter who ordered them to. And he promised to pay any tickets anyone was written by any cop for his or her part in the move.

The move's only mishap was a drunk driver who, seeing an airplane bearing down on him, thought he'd accidentally driven out onto an air-him," Punky said in her inter- and said, 'Have you written field and panicked and skidded into the ditch.

> City Hall officials were, of course, furious. But after their initial attempts to punish Art resulted in some very unflattering newspaper coverage, they gave it up, fined him $10, declared victory and went home.

Art was able to pay half his fine with the $5 collected from his friend. He promptly had his airplane mounted above the gas pumps and renamed the place "The Bomber." And there it sat for the next 63 years, bringing in hundreds of thousands of curious gawkers and customers alike.

Over the years the Laceys added a restaurant and a small hotel. In the early 1990s they closed the gas pumps, and the big B-17 started to look increasingly forlorn up there, exposed to the weather and the occasional predations of

Then, in 1996, the family decided to do something about it — and the B-17 Alliance was born, dedicated to restoring the "Lacey Lady," as they've dubbed the bomb-

Currently the bomber is in the B-17 Alliance Museum and Restoration, located at McNary Airfield in Salem (3278 25th St. SE). The museum is open Fridays through Sundays from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. The multi-million-dollar restoration still has a ways to go before it's successfully completed, and the Alliance is working to raise the necessary funds to get it done; when it is, the Lacey Lady will be one of just seven B-17s remaining in flyable condition. Full details of their project are at www.b71alliancegroup.com.

OPRD seeking feedback on proposed changes

SALEM – Oregon Parks and Recreation Department (OPRD) is gathering public comments on proposed changes announced month to the rules guiding reservations, special access passes, rate ranges and fee waivers.

The proposed changes were announced last month in a press release. Public comments on the proposed rule change will be accepted through 5 p.m. Jan. 15, 2026, and can be submitted:

Online: https://www.oregon.gov/oprd/prp/pages/ prp-division%2015.aspx

Mail: OPRD Department, attn: Katie Gauthier, 725 Summer St NE, Suite C, Salem OR 97301

Email: OPRD.Publiccomment@oprd.oregon.gov

A public hearing will be held for the public to provide comments.

Virtual Hearing: 5:30 p.m. December 15, 2025. Register to attend the hearing https://us06web.zoom. us/webinar/register/WN civm2LvcQx-R0ZKCwH-Cwww.

OPRD faces a projected operational budget shortfall of $8 million for this biennium based on forecasts through November. The projected shortfall is down from the $14 million estimate due to a combination of revenue-generating strategies, including an increase in parking fee parks and overnight camping fee adjustments.

The shortfall is due to increasing costs, the impact of higher visitation and a decrease in projected Oregon Lottery funds for operations. Visitor fees do not cover the cost of operations, and Oregon State Parks does not receive general fund tax revenue for operations.

Proposed Cancellation Policy

The proposed changes to the reservation policy discourage late cancellations and no-shows by incentivizing early cancellations. Refunds will no longer be provided for those who fail to cancel, which will help reduce unused reservations and open more opportunities for visitors to enjoy parks. The changes include:

No refunds on the day of beginning March 1, 2026.

No-show reservations will not be refunded

Refunds vary based on how long reservation is held, how close to arrival it is can-

Proposed Changes to Special Access Pass

Future Special Access Passes (SAP) for Veterans and foster families will be exclusively for those who live in Oregon, according to proposed changes. This will help ensure that limited resources are directed toward Oregonians. That update along with limiting the number of free days to 10 per year will reduce the fees waived by $2.2 million per biennium or 46% decrease in costs. Proposed changes include:

Must be Oregon residents to participate.

Waived overnight rental fees (up to 10 nights/year).

Day-use parking permit fee waived.

SAP Cancellations: Must cancel reservations to avoid losing benefit nights. Refunded nights will be based on length of time reservation is

Proposed Rate Ranges:

Day Use Parking Permit fees: $7-$25 daily; $30-$100 (12-month); $50-$200 (24-month*).

Dynamic Pricing: Rates may vary by day of week, season, holidays, amenities, and demand.

Proposed Rate Ranges

The updated fee ranges for campsites, cabins, yurts and group facilities based on market conditions and anticipated inflation. The new rate ranges will allow for greater use of demand pricing.

This proposed change is part of a broader strategy to stabilize revenue and maintain high-quality park services.

Ultimately, these proposed changes are intended to keep Oregon's parks open, well-maintained and welcoming for generations to come.

Once the public comment period ends, the proposal with any incorporated updates is slated to go to Oregon State Parks and Recreation Commission in February 2026 for possible adoption. If adopted, new rules would be effective

ment for TANF benefits

ODHS can replace Temporary Assistance for Needy Families (TANF) benefits that are lost due to fraud. TANF families who believe benefits have been stole from their EBT card should contact ODHS to request replacement benefits within 30 days of the benefits being stolen. Information on card safety and

ODHS cannot replace SNAP benefits

The federal funding to replace benefits ran out on Dec. 21, 2024, and ODHS is no longer authorized to replace stolen Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP) benefits.

About SNAP in Oregon

SNAP is entirely federally funded and helps more than 1 in 6 people in Oregon about 18 percent of households — buy groceries. This includes children, working families, older adults and people with disabilities.

Every $1 in SNAP benefits generates $1.50 to $1.80 in local economic activity, driving an estimated $1.6 billion into Oregon's economy each year.

Douglas County Mail photos by Bob Chaney The annual Ray Munoz Memorial Thanksgiving Day Dinner, was held last Thursday at the Myrtle Creek Community Center. Members of the Myrtle Creek Lions Club, the sponsor of the event, were very pleased to see the number of volunteers who came out to assist with the dinner. The Munoz family showed up in force to honor Ray. According to organizers there were approximately 175 people who came through line and received a meal. Lions Club President Janis Clark said that although the attendance numbers have not equaled those prior to the pandemic, the club now knows what to expect and plans to continue the dinner for many more years.
